FastTRACK

Climbing the rungs of the corporate ladder

Anisa International, Inc.

Shana King has rejoined Anisa International, Inc. as beauty director. In her new role, King will leverage her product development knowledge and beauty education expertise to further support and grow the company's private label business. She returns to Anisa International where she served as executive director of sales and marketing and co-founder of aDesign Brushes retail line from 2005 to 2009. Most recently, she served as vice president of business development with Glamcor Professional, a supplier of equipment and accessories for make-up professionals.

More info: www.anisa.com.